

UCR NIBRS

Compilation, analysis oversight.

CONSULTING

Provided by senior level law enforcement technology, communications, and records management professionals.

Is your crime data correct?

We will resolve your UCR/NIBRS challenges.

As crime stats continue to be an issue in law enforcement, agencies continue to face public scrutiny for their statistical data. UCR is designed to measure increases and decreases in crime on a national level yet police departments continuously attempt to use it to report amounts of specific crimes in their jurisdictions. This misunderstanding makes compliance with UCR rules a challenge.

Furthermore, data inaccuracy can be due to faulty reporting protocol, a lack of agency wide report writing standards and manuals, and RMS code tables which contain errors.

Breakdowns can occur at any point in the reporting lifecycle which also affects statistical accuracy. Incorrect classifications, a lack of thorough report review, and problematic data capture can all lead to inaccurate statistics and crime rates.

We take a holistic approach to assessing and resolving crime data inconsistencies by assessing all phases of police reporting, review, and UCR compilation and production. We will resolve your UCR challenges.

We are certified auditors through ILEAA.

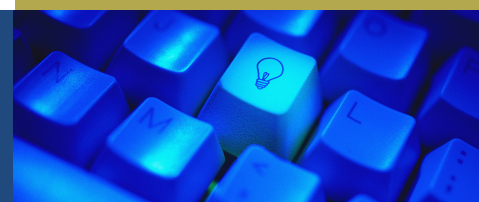

PRI Management Group
PO Box 142151
Coral Gables, FL. 33134
305-460-0096

ed@policerecordsmanagement.com

SOLUTIONS

- Comprehensive process review.
- Statistical assessments.
- Code table development and correction.
- UCR reporting assistance.
- Validation and compliance review.
- Report writing training.
- UCR and research training.
- Policy development.

PRI MANAGEMENT GROUP

Stay out of the headlines.

"Dallas Chiefs Differ on How to Count Crime"
Dallas Morning News April 5, 2010

"Stats Spark Accusations in Sheriff's Race"
The Daily Reflector March 14, 2010

"Crime Stats Still Cause for Concern"
The Topeka Capital-Journal

About Us

Owner and law enforcement veteran Edward Cloughton is a foremost expert in police records and information management. Certified by the International Law Enforcement Auditors Association, his turnaround of a police records unit is gaining national attention and is singularly bringing professionalism to a new level in the field of law enforcement information management. He conveys the importance of stringent reporting standards for police departments through real world examples. As a selected speaker for the IACP, consultant, and training provider, he has helped numerous agencies in creating technology oriented and customer-focused records operations.

Police Records and Information Management Group
PO Box 142151
Coral Gables, FL. 33134
phone: 305-460-0096
email: ed@policerecordsmanagement.com

PRi Management Group

CLIENT FOCUSED

We maintain relationships with our clients long after we are gone. Satisfaction is our goal.

EXPERIENCED

We are law enforcement and stay current with industry standards and trends.

INTEGRITY

Unlike large consulting firms, we don't work to drive up profits. We work to bring you success with our real world policing experience. Referrals are our hope.

